Trainer Notes & Answer Key

Keep this page for yourself – not for trainees

Teaching order: The field guide's own pattern is location → action → description — always describe where the bird is first, then what it's doing, then what it looks like. Teach the vocabulary sets in that order: Location, Action, Habitat, then Colors and Body Parts, then combine everything with the "Describe the Bird!" generator and worksheet.

Bird Anatomy diagram: Use this as a wall reference or laminate it for the field. Practice by pointing at a numbered part and having trainees say the English word, then flip to quiz them the other way (say the word, they point).

Color / Location / Action / Habitat Cards: Hold up a card, trainee says the full sentence ("It is green." / "The bird is on the branch."). For extra practice, combine two cards at once (a location card + an action card) into one sentence.

Describe It / Guide Phrase Cards: Show the Spanish side first and have trainees produce the English before flipping to check — this mirrors the real task of translating a thought into English on the spot while guiding.

Describe the Bird! Worksheet: Trainees fill in the blanks using any combination from the word banks, then read their sentences aloud to a partner. For an oral-only version, use the digital practice tool's "Describe the Bird!" tab, which generates a random combination and reads it aloud — good for repeated drilling without paper.

Role-play: Pair up trainees. One plays a visitor asking "Do you see it? What is it doing?" — the other points to a picture of a bird (or looks out a window) and answers using the full location → action → description pattern.
